

BAXAB's management of GDPR.

On May 25, 2018, the EU's new data protection regulation, GDPR, will enter into force. The law implies higher demands on how we as a company treat personal data and give you as a customer better opportunities to influence our management. All information you provide as a customer at BAXAB is confidential.

The information we store in the customer register is:

- Company name you represent.
- Your first-and lastname.
- Address.
- The telephone number.
- E-mail.

The information is stored in order to contact you as a customer regarding market communication or other issues related to the above. The data is saved as long as you are a customer and are only available to BAXAB and will not be shared with other parties. You are entitled to inspect, modify or remove information about you and receive responses within 30 days in electronic format.
